

Highbury reserve located in the township of Highbury 15 kilometres south of Narrogin is a wildflower hotspot, particularly for stark white spider orchids. A 1 km easy walk trail features an amazing variety of orchids and other winter/spring wildflowers. The best time to visit is June to October, but there is good bird watching at any time of the year.

The rest stop by the sun dial has free RV camping, toilet facilities, and plenty of room for travelers to stop and take a break from their journey.

You can nip over the road to the Highbury General Store for fuel, a cup of coffee, or an all day breakfast.

The Highbury tavern is a historic pub with comfortable units, steakhouse and beer. The dining room is open evenings and for weekend lunch. Dogs on leash are welcome.

A day visit here could include historic Volwolling Pool (100 metre walk to pool) or wildflower-rich Newman Block.

There are two great wildflower spots in Highbury. The first is open bush on the right hand corner (western side) as you drive from Narrogin. This has a wonderful spring display of orchids, everlastings and flowering shrubs.

Across the railway line on the Highbury East Road, a 1 kilometre easy (grade2) walk features an amazing variety of orchids and other winter/spring wildflowers.
